How to do tub clean on lg washer

This is my guide on cleaning your washing machine and most importantly, how to clean your washing machine using vinegar and baking soda – without toxic chemicals. My how to clean washing machines demonstration includes an easy way to get rid of washing machine odor and smells, cleaning front-loading washing machines, and washing machine cleaner to keep your washer clean. How to Clean Your Washing Machine with Vinegar and Baking Soda (Front Load and Top Loading) We have had our LG front-loading washing machine and dryer for a few years now. We love them (thanks, Mom and Dad!). Although, there was one thing we did not like, washing machine odor and smells. You know, the moldy smell coming from our washing machine. As a breast cancer survivor, I now try to be more careful about the amount of chemicals we are putting in, on, and around our bodies. I like finding ways to clean naturally, with few harsh chemicals. How to Get Rid of Washing Machine Odor and Washing Machine Smells According to some sites, to get rid of washing machine odor you should keep your washing machine door open to let it air out after each cycle. Since we have cats and I worry about the possibility of them climbing into the washtub when no one is watching. I have tried leaving the door ajar with a piece of masking tape connecting the door and the edge of the machine. Although, I often forget to do this. Time to Bite the Bullet and Figure Out How to Clean Washing Machine Alas, it was time to clean the washing machine. I had been putting this task off for a while. This afternoon, I finally decided to bite the bullet and just get it done. I searched for how to clean washing machines with vinegar and baking soda. Surprisingly, it was quite easy to clean the LG washing machine and it took very little time. How to clean your washing machine without toxic chemicals Clean Your Washing Machine Using Vinegar and Baking Soda How do you clean a washing machine? I did some research. I used Pinterest (of course), some Google searching, and the LG Caring For Your LG Front Load Washer cleaning manual. If you have an LG washing machine or some other brands, then check to see if you have a special cycle mode called “Tub Clean”, or something like that. On my washing machine, this option is in the upper right corner. Easy Washing Machine Cleaning without Chemicals – Tub Clean Cycle Instructions How to clean washing machine tub If you have a smelly washer and you want to remove odors from the washing machine, then here are instructions for cleaning the washing machine tub. First, be sure the wash drum is empty (no clothes, towels, etc.). Then, pour bleach, tub cleaner, or vinegar into the dispenser, but do not add any additional detergent or fabric softener. If you are using a powdered cleaner, remove the liquid detergent cup and add the powder to the main wash compartment. After closing the drawer and door, select the tub clean mode and then start. Then, after the cycle is complete, open the door and use a towel or cloth to wipe the various parts of the door (opening, door seal, glass door) and wipe inside the rubber seal as well. I get my natural cleaning products from Amazon. If you do to, be sure to read my tips for finding Amazon coupons. Keyword: cleaning, washing machine Empty the wash drum of clothes, towels, etc. Pour bleach, tub cleaner, or vinegar into the dispenser, but do not add any detergent or fabric softener. If you are using a powdered cleaner, remove the liquid detergent cup and add the powder to the main wash compartment. Close the door and select the tub clean mode and then start the washing machine. After the cycle is complete, open the door and use a towel or cloth to wipe the various parts of the door (opening, door seal, glass door) and wipe inside the rubber seal as well. LG recommends running this Tub Clean cycle monthly in order to remove detergent buildup and other residues. If your washing machine does not have a tub clean mode or it needs a more thorough cleaning, then continue on to the next part – Easily getting your washing machine clean without toxic chemicals. How to Clean Washing Machine with Vinegar and Baking Soda – Front Loader Washing Machine Cleaning As a breast cancer survivor, I have become more cautious about the chemicals we use in our house. It is impossible to eliminate all chemicals, but if I can, I try to substitute gentler cleaning products in exchange for harsh chemicals. This method of cleaning a front loading washing machine involves using water, vinegar, and baking soda. I try to stay away from bleach. I clean almost everything with vinegar. If your washing machine is super dirty and has lots of mildew, then you might need to use something stronger than the water, vinegar, baking soda combination. Remember, if you choose to use bleach, make sure the room is well ventilated (open doors and windows), wear gloves, and do not use vinegar or ammonia at the same time as bleach. Steps to Clean a Front Loading Washing Machine with Vinegar and Baking Soda First, prepare a spray bottle with a mixture of half vinegar and half water. Get discounted spray bottles here. Then, thoroughly spray the inside of the washing machine. Be sure to pull back the rubber gaskets, where there will most likely be mold and spray there too. Next, using a cloth or paper towels wipe down the entire inside of the washing machine. Be sure to wipe down the area underneath and behind the pulled back rubber gasket. In addition, you may even want to use a toothbrush to get in between the tight spaces. You will pull out all kinds of fun (gross) stuff. If there is still mold remaining, then soak a rag in the vinegar and water solution, squeeze it in between the rubber gasket, and let it sit for an hour. Or, add some baking soda to extra grimy or moldy parts. Then, let it sit and then clean off the baking soda with the water/vinegar. After that, using a clean cloth wipe down the inside of the washer until everything is dry and the grime is removed. Next, open the washing machine detergent dispenser and wipe down the inside with a cloth, water, and vinegar. Clean the detergent dispenser with vinegar and water. Now, add 2 cups of vinegar to either the tub or dispenser and run your washing machine on the hottest setting possible. Note – If you used bleach to clean the inside of the tub, run a hot wash cycle without vinegar first, before running the vinegar cycle. After the cycle is done, use a rag with water and vinegar to clean the inside of the door and outside of the washing machine. Now you have a clean washing machine! That wasn't bad, was it? How to Keep It Clean Consider getting a washing machine dust cover. Look Closely Did you notice anything about the picture? I just realized my legs are in the photo in the reflection on the door. Oh well. That must mean the washing machine door is sparkling clean, right? How to Use Washing Machine Cleaner In order to keep your machine clean and not have a smelly washer, you'll want to keep up with your cleaning. One method to keeping your washing machine clean is to wipe it down after each use and keep the door ajar, if possible. You can clean your washer with a dry rag or spray a mixture of water and vinegar first. These washer machine cleaning tablets are designed to penetrate, dissolve and remove odor-causing residue that can occur in washing machines. They got great reviews on Amazon and is Amazon's choice for “washing machine cleaner”. If you want more tips on cleaning without harsh chemicals then check out:
